ABSTRACT

In attending a skills-based training programme, it is expected that you would gain new tools and techniques of carrying out a particular activity. Seldom are such gained skills expected in Higher Education, more so at a postgraduate level. I am able to testify that my participation in the PGCERT HE programme has transformed my theory and practice in Higher Education. From the development of training plans to the execution of assessments, I will be sharing some examples of this transformation which occurred less than one year after the completion of the programme.
